

Spotlight shines on Ninety7Fifty

February 17, 2014

Chicago, IL – Flaherty & Collins Properties’ Ninety7Fifty on the Park was recently highlighted by The Chicago Tribune. The article, published Friday, focuses on the many outstanding amenities featured on the property for residents to enjoy.

Ninety7Fifty on the Park, a 295-unit development in Orland Park, is uniquely situated to bring many conveniences at resident doorstep. From biking, shopping and dining to open space, parks and expedient commutes, the community maximizes location with luxury.

“The building’s design incorporates contemporary and traditional elements,” says the article, by Sharon Stangenes. “Those stepping inside the north-facing main door enter a light-filled, elegant two-story lobby. The brick exterior reflects the materials used in the 143rd Street train station’s traditional architecture.”
