“Construction is a vastly divergent and always changing atmosphere that requires a solid amount of patience, commitment, accountability, and hard work. It is my goal at Flaherty & Collins to be consistent at all of those qualities while communicating purpose and direction efficiently with all members of the project team for all of us to be successful at improving both our work and personal lives.”

RESPONSIBILITIES

Dustin oversees the construction of Flaherty & Collins Properties developments, from design to build to the turnover of the site to the property management team. He is responsible for administering, supervising and coordinating all aspects of the construction portion of a project. Dustin manages the overall budget, project documents, and schedule through coordinating in value-engineering, construction software, and critical path analysis. He shares the project vision with the development, management, and field staff to create a successful and efficient project for Flaherty & Collins Properties and its subcontractors.
